

Digit the Badger 5

The Badger Group decided to put up lots of bird boxes near to the hide, to attract the birds, and give them somewhere to build their nests. (Nesting places are becoming more difficult to find as we 'tidy up' old hollow trees.)

They drew plans of the boxes they wanted, so that they could be machined to the right size.

This guy's nest box just didn't work! He should have measured his angles more carefully!

Don't forget to help the birds during the winter. They'll appreciate food and water when the weather is cold.
